

Fire and Life Safety Ecosystem

One of the major concepts of NFPA 3000® is whole community. An informed public working with public officials, responders, agencies, and many more are integral in planning for, responding to, and recovering from an incident. Removing just one player or procedure from the process can mean the difference between life or death.

This is the foundation of NFPA's fire and life safety ecosystem. To learn more about the ecosystem, please visit nfpa.org/ecosystem, or click on the Fire & Life Safety Ecosystem graphic.

Navigation controls including a play button, a search bar, and a set of icons for back, forward, and other navigation functions.